New College is looking for writers for New Beat's Monthly Newsletter!

New Beat is New College's student written newsletter. It is produced by students to be read and shared among the New College community. Our focus is on student life and engagement, personal and professional development, and student-focused lifestyle articles that will educate and entertain.

As a New Beat writer, you can suggest your own topic or choose from a list of topics to write about. You can also submit your poetry, photography or artwork!
